

Please do not destroy or alter net neutrality. The Internet was not the creation of cable companies, nor did they purchase the technology from it's creators. It belongs to all people, and if you allow cable companies to control the flow of data on the Internet, you are participating in theft. This will infringe on the American people's right to free speech and will encourage the exacerbation of monopolies in our economy. This will make the Internet even more susceptible to propaganda and misinformation campaigns. Our democracy is at stake. No one approves of this action, other than the massive cable companies that stand to make ridiculous and unfair amounts of money from this potential action. It is a blatant case of corporatism that this action is even on the table. The Trump administration ran on a populist platform, and this action is exactly the opposite of populism.
